Says Cook of TheatreWorks Florida's new theater venue and Season 2018-19: "I have lived in Davenport, FL for 18 years. TheatreWorks Florida has been based here since 2007 but most of our work has been outside our community because there was no solid audience for arts & culture. We had no home venue to speak of, save for borrowing limited space from our creative partner, Florida Southern College (Lakeland, FL). In the beginning years, we never really needed a home because we were touring and installing shows for other theatres. All that changed in 2014 when we received our first of four National Endowment for the Arts awards that supported our community outreach program, TheatreCares. Overnight, we needed a place to produce completely on our own. Through a gracious series of events, Polk County Public Schools opened the doors of the Davenport Community Campus, an old School of The Arts that had been shut down, and let TheatreWorks Florida utilize the space. The facility had been left in the dark for so long but when I turned the lights on in the dance studio for the first time in years, a million ideas went racing through my mind. A beautiful rehearsal studio, theatre, shop space and more – it was like Christmas! I knew we had found a long-awaited home.

The city of Davenport is now the 2nd fastest growing city in Florida. With growth comes people and strong communities need strong arts and culture programming to thrive and improve the quality of life. As an established theatre company, we have made a solid commitment to Davenport by becoming heavily involved in our local community and creating new ideas and fresh programming that our growing population desperately needs. We still need a lot of funding and support but now, 4 years later, we have completed our inaugural theatre season 2017-18 for the community of Davenport and it was wildly successful! TheatreWorks Florida has so much to offer Davenport, Polk County and all of Central FL. It is beyond thrilling to be at the helm of a company that will offer year-round programming that is sure to be exciting, empowering and transforming to a community that has never had it. We are ready to propel the arts to a whole new level in Polk County.”
